

Thank you for your interest in our training programs.

In this document you will find important information about the methodology we use to trade and teach our Forex training programs, as well as the most important features of each one of our courses.

In order to help you become better traders we have created several courses for different levels of experience, knowledge and goals as traders. Please browse through them and see which one fits better your level of development.

The main objective of our courses is to provide you with the knowledge, experience and tools that will help you achieve consistency.

Why consistency? Shouldn't it read "successfully"? When we trade for a living or as a job, and use profits to pay the bills or to meet some requirements, you need a well defined strategy that fits your personality and risk profile in order to reduce uncertainty at the end of each trading period. If it doesn't fit your personality (risk profile, trading style, goals, etc.) you will have problems trying to follow it, therefore unable to trade consistently.

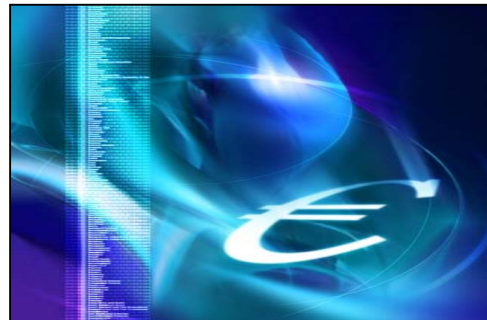

Trading consistently is no easy task, you need to master several important aspects of trading, but that's the reason we are here, to help you get the consistency required to trade successfully the forex market.

Should you have any question, don't hesitate to contact us.

Kindest regards,

Raúl López

OUR METHODOLOGY: PRICE BEHAVIOR

In our advanced courses (SF Advanced and SF Intensive), we teach our students how to trade the forex market based on a price behavior approach.

A price behavior approach (also called price action approach), means we get all the information we need to make our trading decision from the market itself. How is this different from other trading methodologies or systems? Other trading methodologies use "technical indicators" to take their trading decisions, we don't. All technical indicators have a lagging factor, they actually tell us how the market behaved, and not how is the market likely to behave in the future.

Price behavior in the other hand, tells us where the market is likely to continue its move, so we can get ready to make our trading decision.

But trading consistently isn't only about where to get in and out of the market, it also includes aspects such as:

Money Management – Helps us avoid the risk of ruin and increase our profits geometrically.

Trade Management – How we handle each open position.

Risk Management – How much to risk and where to place efficient stop loss orders

Trading psychology – dealing with our emotions

All these aspects and more are covered in our advanced courses. Please refer to the advanced courses outline later in this document.

COURSE CONTENT

These are all the topics covered at our advanced courses (SF Intensive and SF Advanced):

Lesson 1: Price, our best indicator – We will show you how to combine signals from technical indicators with price action signals to have better results. In this chapter you will also learn about the three fundamental principles of the price behavior approach.

Lesson 2: Mapping our time frame – An effective way to determine the short term trend of the market. This technique involves pivot points and other proprietary analysis.

Lesson 3: Money Management – Knowing exactly how much to risk in your next trade will give you an advantage, avoiding the risk of ruin but also allowing your capital to grow geometrically.

Lesson 4: Risk Management – We will review some of risk management techniques that will allow you to set your stop loss orders at effective points.

Lesson 5: Trade Management – Entering a trade is one thing, how we handle that trade is another... most of the time the outcome of a trade depends on how well we handle that trade.

Lesson 6: Our Trading System Part I – In this lesson we will share with you how we trade the forex market, how we determine low risk trading opportunities.

Lesson 7: Our trading System Part II – Here we show you every single aspect of the strategy that has nothing to do with the entry signal: trade management, money management, etc.

Lesson 8: Trading Ideas – A few ideas that will give you an edge to trade the forex market.

Lesson 9: Trading Psychology and habits for success – How we deal with our emotions sometimes is the difference between a profitable trader and a “about to be a profitable trader”.

Lesson 10: Daily Briefing – What to do day by day to improve your trading results.

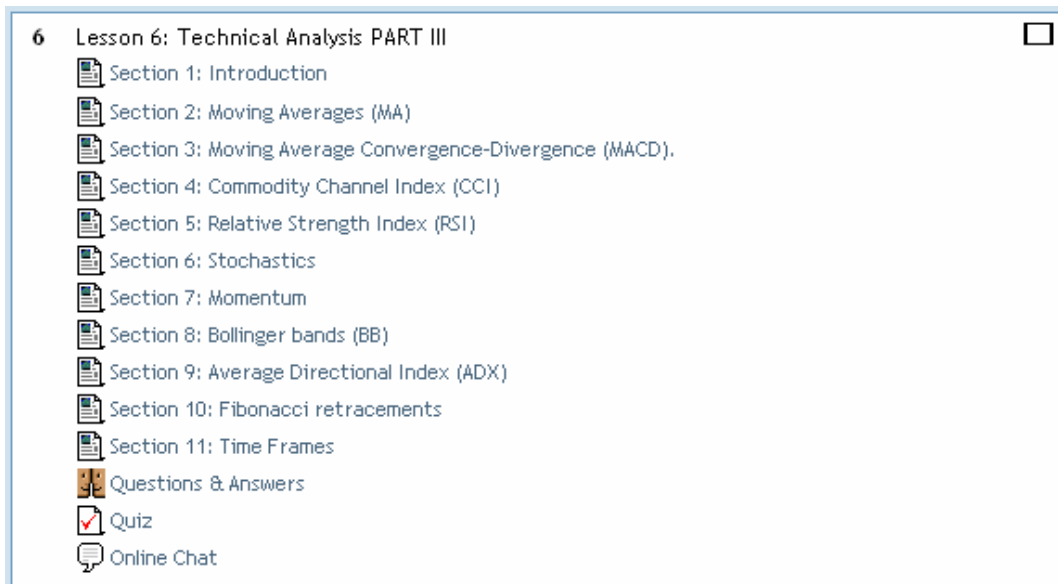

Lesson 11: Trading as a Business – Having a business plan is a big part of trading the currency markets.

Note: Please visit the SF Free Forex Course webpage to see the topics covered at our basic courses.
